THE PEACE BELLS OF BROOKLINE.

Our hearts were waiting, bleeding, waiting. With trembling, longing, hope, desire, Our very breaths in silence bating. And while we prayed, "God's hand be staid: Let war be over, peace be made!"

Through all the air, with cadence fine, Came pealing bells from fair Brookline: "Peace is signed at Appomattox! Mattoxi! Mattoxi! Peace is signed at Appomattox!"

From spire to spire the tidings spring As stainless flash o'er peaks of snow. While strong men weep or pray or sing. And each man's mood to all seems good. For in that happy, golden glow To God all grateful hearts incline. While shouts the bells of fair Brookline: "Peace is signed at Appomattox! Mattoxi! Mattoxi! Peace is signed at Appomattox!"

Two children rang that glorious peal In lightsome glee that war was over. As men and women now they feel How best were they that happy day To ring the bells which tidings bore That brother brother fought no more! And still they'll think in life's decline When sound the bells of fair Brookline, For never in memory's dreams shall cease That peal seraphic ringing: "Peace! Peace was signed at Appomattox! Mattoxi! Mattoxi! Peace was signed at Appomattox!"

Retaining Youth in Mature Life. Not only does the vivacity, the enthusiasm, which belongs to youth carry the man who retains it in middle age over difficulties, but it brings him the sympathy and applause of the world, which is sometimes refused to more worthy men.

We honor Bacon, but we give our affection to Charles Lamb. Washington, Jefferson, Adams and Webster commanded the homage and veneration of the nation, but it is to Clay, Lincoln and Elihu, with all of their faults.

The tendency of American life is to force our young people into shrewd adults, who try anxiously to rid themselves of impulse and emotion.

It is a common sarcasm among the young that their fathers and mothers enjoy jokes and are touched by sentiment which their children are quite too old to care for.

But may not the fin de siècle boys and girls be losing an element of strength when they forget how to weep and make merry.—Youth's Companion.

Effect of Faith in Times of Sickness. The effect of belief or faith, the effect of mind over the matter of the body, is one of the mysterious things in all science. It is unquestionably a fact, demonstrated beyond all dispute by thousands of observed cases. Long before it was admitted or studied by scientific men it was commonly known, and that, too, among races of little mental development. Who shall say when the first enemy prayed his enemy to death among the natives of the South Sea islands? Who can tell when the first Old man "put on his" on him who had defied him? The religious mysteries of vanished nations are full of recorded occurrences that may only be explained by the extraordinary power.—Cyrus Edson, M. D., in North American Review.

Gold and Silver Paint. "Let me tell you how to buy gold or silver paint," says a lady. "Don't get it mixed or in the little bottles of powder and liquid that come in boxes. Get the gold, silver or bronze powder by the ounce and buy the liquid medium separately, as many ounces at a time as you wish. You know the bottle of liquid never lasts as long as your powder because it dries away and evaporates so rapidly. In this case you get any amount you wish. Mix a small amount at a time, use it as quickly as you can after it is prepared and always keep your bottle corked."—Philadelphia Times.

A Marvelous Memory. A memory is a good thing to cultivate. Most people have passably good memories, many have extraordinary ones, and some have none at all. One of the causes of the popularity of the late James G. Blaine was his remarkable memory for names and faces. It is said that Mr. Blaine could recall the faces and names of persons he had met only casually 10 years and more after the first meeting, not having encountered them in the interval.—Harper's Young People.

Snakes on the Isles of Shoals. The Isles of Shoals, mere rocks standing 10 miles from the New Hampshire coast in a cold sea, are alive with snakes. On a hot day one will see dozens of them running in and out of the boggy places or sunning themselves on the bare ridges. They are nothing to be afraid of, however, for they are of only one variety—the common little green snake that seldom grows to a length of 2 feet.

A Rumor as to Men's Evening Dress. It is once more current in society that the Prince of Wales is endeavoring to modify men's evening dress and that the usual swallowtails are to be replaced by a black or dark colored short coat and also that knee breeches are to be worn.

McSwine's gun is a prodigious cavity in the cliffs on the coast of County Donegal, Ireland, into which the tide rushes with such force as to produce a sound like the booming of a cannon, which can be heard 20 or 30 miles away.

Were the superfluities of a nation valued and made a perpetual tax or benevolence, there would be more almshouses than poor, more schools than scholars and enough to spare for government besides.—Penn.

Too many of us in our eagerness after more simply for the sake of storing up knowledge neglect the necessary means of making our knowledge useful.

It is agreed by medical authorities that the virulence of an epidemic may be increased by the element of fear in the public mind.

The canyon of the Colorado is 800 miles long, and the cliffs on either side are from 5,000 to 6,000 feet above the water.

WAKE UP.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, Languor, Dull Headache, Despondency, Constipation, take Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the furred tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes eat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness—a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.

THE SILVER PARTY IN THE SENATE.

The goldbug press of the east is now deploring the shortsightedness of the Republican party in admitting the six northwestern states to the union. The object was to keep a Republican majority in the senate for many years, though the Democrats might gain control of the presidency and the house. Now they complain because they over-shot the mark and brought upon themselves a double disaster. The New York Sun, which is now run in the interest of the gold trust, though six or eight years ago it was in favor of changing the financial system of the country to a silver basis, says they helped build up by their summary and precipitate admission of these states a new party which carried two of them—Idaho and Wyoming—against Mr. Harrison, and cost the Republicans Kansas, Colorado and Nevada, heretofore secure in the Republican column.

The seven silver-producing states are Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Washington and South Dakota. The Sun says they cast at the late election collectively 404,992 votes. If to them we add the votes of North Dakota and Wyoming, 62,824 in all, governed by similar political conditions and sympathizing with the neighboring pro-silver states, we have a total of 467,816.

The Sun, which ordinarily upholds constitutional representation by which every state is entitled to two senators, seems to regret in this instance that the Silver party is in the ascendancy, are equally represented in the senate with New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and expresses its feelings as follows:

"The senate is composed of eighty members. The total vote of the people at the late election numbered 12,068,595. Were the basis of representation identical in each state, each senator would stand for 1,508,574 votes. But these nine states instead of having only four senators, as their population might justify, actually have eighteen; and it is on account of this undue representation, for which the Republicans are directly accountable, that the silver men are so strong in the senate."

The Sun is opposed to Cleveland. It never did cordially support him for the presidency, in fact it advocated the election of General Butler, in 1884, but it is now a strong advocate of what is said to be his financial policy, though it has to deflect its rays from the line of reason to do so.

THE WOOL INDUSTRY.

According to the census tables the number of woolen establishments in the United States in 1890 was 2,459 with an invested capital of $286,494,831. Those establishments employed 219,132 persons, paying wages aggregating $76,666,712 and using 372,797,413 pounds of wool, which cost $98,540,480. The cost of all materials used $392,815,842 and the value of the products was $337,668,524.

These statistics were compiled by the census bureau before the McKinley law went into effect, and it would be interesting for comparison to know how that law affected the industry. One thing in regard to the subject is certain and that is that wool is much cheaper to-day than it was in 1890. Then Nevada wool unwashed brought in the San Francisco market from thirteen to sixteen cents per pound; now the same class of wool is quoted in that market at from ten to twelve cents per pound. This decline in price may be due to other causes than the McKinley bill, but the fact that there is a decline leads some people to believe that Senator Sherman was right when he contended in the senate in advocacy of the McKinley bill that a high tariff cheapened the protected article. This argument seems unreasonable, and, putting sugar on the free list proves it so, yet, as in the case of silver, there are thousands of intelligent people who believe John Sherman to be infallible and point to him as the greatest financier and statesman in the United States.

THE MIDWINTER FAIR.

Notwithstanding the stringency of the money market and the fact that the $10,000 check purported to have been sent by the widow of the late Senator Stanford to the committee in San Francisco was forged, about $200,000 has been subscribed to the midwinter fair. This is nearly one-half the amount required to start the enterprise, and the Report says the city has gone so far that it cannot turn back. That paper contends that the general benefit to the city and state from the fair will more than compensate for the trouble and expense that will be attached to it. Not only California but the whole coast is desirous of having the fair and will aid in making it a success.

The estimates of the experts, the Report says, places the minimum cost of the buildings required at half a million dollars. The money and contributions of material now promised exceeds over half that sum, and there ought not to be much difficulty in raising the balance.

With the great natural advantages of San Francisco for holding a midwinter fair there would be no doubt of its success if the city would erect the necessary buildings. Hundreds of thousands of people would visit the city during the winter and expend millions of dollars. Transportation lines, hotels and in fact all kinds of business would be benefitted and times would be livelier than at any time in the history of the city.

SHALL MORMONS VOTE?

The Utah Commission Decides in the Affirmative.

SALT LAKE, July 18.—The long mooted question, Will the polygamous Mormons vote? was settled by the Utah commission in the affirmative to-day. After devoting the whole morning to a thorough discussion of the subject, late in the afternoon the following resolutions were adopted:

"WHEREAS, A difference of opinion appears to exist as to the efficacy of the amnesty granted by ex-President Harrison to relieve sexual offenders in Utah from prior disability to vote, and, whereas, in the interest of elective government that doubt ought to be solved in favor of the men; therefore

"Resolved, That any person in the territory otherwise qualified to vote, and who has abstained from committing any such sexual offense from November 1, 1900, ought, in the opinion of the commission, for the reason aforesaid, to be permitted to register."

Three of the commission are of the opinion that the president's proclamation without legislation does not restore the privilege of voting to those disfranchised, but concurs in the resolution pending legislation.

Criminal Negligence.

CHICAGO, July 18.—The coroner's jury investigating the awful fire at the cold storage building on the world's fair grounds last week, in which so many lives were lost, this evening returned a verdict holding to the grand jury for criminal negligence the following persons: Daniel H. Burnham, director of works of the world's fair; Fire Marshal Edward Murphy, J. B. Skinner, president of the Hercules iron works (owning cold storage plant), and Chas. A. McDonald, secretary and treasurer of the same company.

All of the indicted men will give bonds, no order of arrest having been made.

Telegraph Notes.

The government purchased 400,000 ounces of bullion yesterday at 71½ cents per ounce.

The People's bank of Pomona, Cal., resumed business yesterday with plenty of money on hand.

George F. Parsons, late of the New York Tribune, formerly editor of the Sacramento Record-Union, died in New York yesterday.

The Great Maid and Henrietta combination silver mines at Leadville, the greatest silver producing mines in Colorado, has suspended operation.

Triplets, two boys and a girl, born at Nyack, N. Y., weighed in the aggregate fifteen pounds, and lived seven hours. They were united by a ligature, like the Siamese twins.

The value of exports for the year ending June 30, was $847,423,000, against $1,030,228,000 for the previous year; imports, $941,076,000, against $827,402,000 of the previous year.

Three more banks in Denver closed their doors yesterday, giving notice that the suspension was temporary. Business men think the worst is over. The assets of all the banks exceed the liabilities.

Vice-President Stevenson and party are in San Francisco. They arrived from San Louis Obispo on the steamer Corona, which was escorted down the bay by over twenty tugs. Salutes were fired from the forts as the steamer passed. The vice-president was tendered the freedom of the city.

The French government has sent an ultimatum to Siam. It demands the evacuation of the left bank of the Mekong river to give guarantees for faithful performance of treaty obligations and to pay an indemnity for outrages on the French. As France is already in possession of the lower Mekong she will control nearly the entire river if Siam concedes the demands.

SILVER IN SAN FRANCISCO.

A Large Meeting at the Palace Hotel. The maple room of the Palace hotel would not accommodate half the people who assembled to attend the silver meeting in San Francisco, about 1,000 people being in attendance. The Examiner says:

The meeting was presided over by N. W. Belchaw. A. C. Unsworth acted as secretary. Over and back of the platform the word "silver" shown out in electric lights in a frame of laurel. That was the only decoration in the room.

Congressman Frank G. Newlands of Nevada was the first speaker. He called the attention of the audience to the fact that the energies of the six great states and three territories were almost wholly occupied in the silver industry. Where there was coal mining in these states, he said the coal mining was carried on for the production of fuel for the smelting furnaces. Where there was agriculture it was mainly for the supply of the local mining camps.

"Ask the traffic manager of any of the great railways of the north and northwest which is the heaviest item of their transportation and he will tell you," said Mr. Newlands, "that it is the transportation of minerals and supplies. Demonetize silver and there will hardly be a transcontinental line, out of the hands of a receiver, unless it is the Southern Pacific, so firmly entrenched in the fertile valleys of California. This disaster to transcontinental roads means disaster to eastern as well as western capital, and I think eastern capitalists are beginning to see this and to feel it."

CALIFORNIA TOO APATHETIC.

"They are beginning to see that they have an interest with us in preserving the value of silver and in not encouraging legislation that is to increase the value of English gold, and destroy such cities as Denver, Butte, Helena and Virginia, as the proposed legislation will tend to do."

Mr. Newlands further said that the east had never been properly instructed on the silver question. Its press had never been open to free discussion on the subject. He expressed the hope that when congress should come together there would be a fall and free consideration of the problem. "I look upon it as a great calamity," said he, "that this matter must come up while the country is so disturbed, but I hope congress, by some decisive move, will first ally the existing scare and then proceed deliberately to look into this matter. To aid them in this work the people of the country must put themselves on record in no uncertain terms, and in this direction the voice of California should be distinctly heard."

Ex-Collector Phelps, Attorney General Hart and other prominent citizens made speeches.

A committee of five was appointed to draw up resolutions representing the sentiment of the meeting. The committee consists of N. W. Belchaw, chairman; Judge A. W. Thompson, H. K. Mitchell, John C. Green and Craigie Sharp.

While this committee were deliberating a committee of five gentlemen from a meeting held in Oakland last evening came into the room and asked for a similar committee to act in conjunction with them in arranging for a mass meeting to be held in this city at an early date. The request was acceded to, and the joint committee was empowered to arrange for a mass meeting to be held on Saturday night at a hall to be selected as soon as possible.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

ENGLISH TRAVEL EXPENSIVE.

Why Rates by Rail For Passengers and Freight Are So High.

The eminent English railway authority, Mr. William M. Acworth, points out many causes for the difference between railways in this country and the United States. The higher rate of charges on English roads are thus explained:
The very large capital outlay of English railways is of course one main reason for the high standard of rates and fares in England. Exactly how high that standard is we have no means of knowing, for our railway statistics, made up in a form that was laid down by an act of parliament about 80 years back, carefully suppress the information that it is most necessary for us to have.

Ton miles and passenger miles are not here recorded. We know that each ton of goods carried pays the railways on the average about one cent. If we guess that the average distance is about 20 miles, we arrive at an average rate of 2.40 cents per ton mile, which is not very far from three times the average rate in the United States. So in the case of passengers we may guess that the average fare is about 1.75 per mile, which though lower than the American average, is higher than in any European country. Such a result seems very far from satisfactory. High cost of construction might have justified a high range of rates and fares at the outset, but year by year the high rate of line cost increases in density, and yet the goods rates hardly come down at all—in the last year or two their tendency has been all the other way—while the passenger fares only come down very slowly.

And yet the explanation is not far to seek. Our services have always been expensive to work. They are becoming more expensive year by year. In America trainloads are mainly limited by the capacity of the engines—ours by the weight of goods or number of passengers that have had time to accumulate in the very short interval between one train and another. Let me illustrate: If a man is sailing from New York to Europe, he will choose his favorite line or his favorite boat, regardless of the time of day or of the week at which it starts. On the other hand, if the Manhattan elevated were to try to run its trains only once in 10 minutes in the slack hours of the day the street cars would rob it of the bulk of its passengers.

Now, in England our business is all between places which in America would be regarded as close together. We call Manchester "the north of England," yet Manchester is only 4 1/2 hours from London. Consequently there must be trains between the two points at all hours of the day, to suit the convenience of passengers wanting to go at any time. Consequently, too, each train runs with very much less than a trainload of passengers. Then these trains must be run at high speeds, for though a few minutes more or less are of little importance in a journey of hundreds of miles, a quarter of an hour out of four hours is a very considerable percentage. High speeds mean few stops, and few stops mean additional trains to serve the second class stations. Then high speeds and frequent expresses for passengers mean high speeds and short trains for good—that is, half loaded—engines, for an engine loaded to its full capacity moves so slowly—occupies the line, that is, for so long a period—that it is impossible to find room for it.

But it would not be true to say that the goods are worked at high speed simply for the convenience of the railway management. On the contrary, the demand for speed in the case of merchandise traffic is fully abreast of that in the case of passengers. Broadly, it may be said that the English goods service is based on the supposition that, between important towns at least, whatever is handed to the railway company at the forwarding station over night will be delivered to the consignee the first thing next morning. Now, a service such as this, in the nature of things, can never be a cheap one.—Engineering Magazine.

Two Hundred Inches of Rainfall.
Cherra Punji, in the Khasi hills, Assam, British India, is the "pole of the greatest known rainfall." In other words, it is the wettest region on the face of the earth. Mr. Blandford, at a meeting of the London Meteorological society, read a paper entitled "Rainfall at Cherra Punji," in which he presented incontestable proof of the extreme moisture of the country in question. The records go back for nearly 65 years, but prior to 1872 are rather incomplete, there being several whole years in which no record was kept. Carefully compiled data from these weather journals, however incomplete as they are, prove that quite frequently during the summer, say from May to September, the rainfall for a single month ranges from 100 to 213 inches. Think of it! Nearly 18 feet of precipitation in 30 days. Colonel Sir Henry Yule's register for the year 1841 shows that there were 264 inches of rainfall during the month of August. That was something phenomenal even for Assam, however, and is not taken into account in the deductions made above.—St. Louis Republic.

What Froebel Discovered.
Little Teddy, who is most regular in his attendance at the kindergarten, was very much interested in the approaching celebration of Froebel's birthday. The day before the event he came rushing into the house crying, "Mamma, mamma, I must have some flowers to take to kindergarten tomorrow!" "Certainly, my son, but why do you want them?" "Why, don't you know? Tomorrow is the anniversary of the day that Froebel discovered the first kindergarten!"—New York Tribune.

"German Syrup"

The majority of well-read physicians now believe that Consumption is a germ disease. In other words, instead of being in the constitution itself it is caused by innumerable small creatures living in the lungs having no business there and eating them away as caterpillars do the leaves of trees. The phlegm that is coughed up is those parts of the lungs which have been gnawed off and destroyed. These little bacilli, as the germs are called, are too small to be seen with the naked eye, but they are very much alive just the same, and enter the body in our food, in the air we breathe, and through the pores of the skin. Thence they get into the blood and finally arrive at the lungs where they fasten and increase with frightful rapidity. Then German Syrup comes in, loosens them, kills them, expels them, heals the places they leave, and so nourish and soothe that, in a short time consumption becomes germ-proof and well.

Two Views of the Nation's Danger.
The Rev. Dr. Patton spoke sorrowfully in his baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of Princeton university. He thinks that religion is losing its power over the people. Here is one of his remarks:
"The danger to this nation is not immigration, or the import of gold, or wrong ideas of the tariff, or state socialism. Our danger is that we are losing sight of the great heritage of the Puritans—faith in manhood, allegiance to conscience, belief in God."
We cannot back up this statement. It does not agree with our own observation. There are yet faith and conscience in the community, and these things are not a heritage of Puritanism alone. Religion has not been undermined. Morality is a power in the life of mankind. It seems to us that there are abundant hope and full assurance for all those who are themselves strong in the faith.—New York Sun.

Recall of Mr. O'Brien's Practical Jokes.
Thomas O'Brien, a clerk in the grocery store of Charles L. Glover of Norwalk, tried to play a practical joke on his associates, and it resulted fatally to himself. He went to the cellar, fastened a rope about his neck and over a rafter and stood on a hoghead. Loud groans brought the people down stairs, when O'Brien jumped off the hoghead. He accidentally kicked the box over, and his body hung free from the rafter. He was strangling to death when he was cut down with an ax. His neck is cut by the rope, and he is considerably injured, but will recover.—Hartford Courant.

His Name Saved Him.
A prisoner named Abraham Lincoln was arraigned before a police justice in Jersey City on Decoration day as a disorderly person. The judge asked Ab what he had to say for himself. "Judge, I am a soldier," replied the prisoner, "and I fought for the red, white and blue." "Were you ever arrested before, Abraham?" "I was once, your honor, on St. Patrick's day." "You have a distinguished name," said the judge, "and you should not disgrace it by getting drunk. You are discharged. Your name saves you."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Valuable Privilege.
The attention of college graduates is called to the fact that their degree entitles them only to enter the battle of life. It grants no quarter. Jump into boys, and hustle. In that way alone will you ever open the oyster that has been growing all these years for you and you alone.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Reducing Himself.
"Hello, old man, you look thin. What's the matter?"
"Oh, nothing—did it on purpose so as to be able to wear my flannel shirt I bought last year."—Harper's Bazar.

It isn't in the ordinary way that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the weak and suffering woman who needs it. It's guaranteed. Not with words merely, any medicine can make claims and promises. What is done with the "Favorite Prescription" is this: if it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, your money is refunded. Can you ask any better proof that a medicine will do what it promises?
It's an invigorating, restorative tonic a soothing and strengthening nerve, and a certain remedy for the ills and ailments that beset a woman. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down pains, and all chronic weaknesses and irregularities, it is a positive and complete cure.
To every tired, and over-worked woman, and to every weak, nervous, and ailing one, it is guaranteed to bring health and strength.
